

Craniofacial Patients Participate in First Annual Camp Courage

This past Labor Day weekend, patients from the Children's Center for Craniofacial Disorders enjoyed the inaugural Camp Courage, a unique summer camp offered exclusively to children who are born with craniofacial conditions. Held at Camp Twin Lakes in Rutledge, Ga., Camp Courage provides children with positive role models who help them focus on their strengths and acknowledge their accomplishments.

Occasionally, children with craniofacial conditions may feel self-conscious having never met another child born with the same condition. Campers gain confidence as they master new skills and learn that they are not alone. Camp Courage provides the warmth and comfort of building new friendships forged by the strongest of bonds—the challenges they may have in common. At Camp Courage, the only requirements are to laugh, play, grow and explore. For more information, visit www.choa.org/campcourage. Special thanks to all Children's employees who volunteered their time to help make the first annual Camp Courage a tremendous success.
