Children's Reaches out to Oklahoma's Tornado Victims

As the scope of the devastation from Monday's tornado in Moore, Okla., continues to grow, Children's is looking for ways to help. Last night, Safety and Security reached out to the clinical care coordinator at Oklahoma City's children's hospital, volunteering personnel and offering to receive patients. Children's is also on standby with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) should Oklahoma issue a state-to-state request to Georgia for assistance.

For employees looking to help personally, remember that a Red Cross blood drive is scheduled at The Park for Wednesday, May 22.
